NON-VIOLENT DIRECT ACTION: Activists have used direct actions to spur significant social change, such as the occupation of the all-white lunch counters during the sixties, the Montgomery Bus Boycott, the anti-Vietnam and Gulf War protests, and the American Indian Movement occupation of Wounded Knee. Many famous activists have participated in Direct Action, including Lucy Parsons, Cesar Chavez, Judi Bari, and Winona La Duke. These actions have brought attention to many injustices and led to the growth of progressive movements.
